Jersey City Prepares for Winter Storm With Aggressive Snow Removal Plan as Up to Three Feet of Snow Expected; OEM Center Activated & Crews Remain Operational Throughout Storm

Additional Police and Fire Personnel Called In to Handle Storm-Related Emergencies

JERSEY CITY – Mayor Steven M. Fulop and the Office of Emergency Management, in coordination with the Jersey City Incinerator Authority (JCIA), have launched an aggressive snow removal plan as various forecasts are indicating a foot of snow or more and blizzard-like conditions tonight into Tuesday.

The National Weather Service has issued a Blizzard Watch for the region through Tuesday, with wind gusts reaching up to 50 miles per hour.

“Our JCIA crews have been out since 5 a.m. this morning salting and treating roadways and we will move to a snow removal operation as the storm intensifies,” said Mayor Fulop. “We have brought in additional public safety personnel, as well as all snow removal crews and will be keeping residents updated throughout the storm.”

The Fire Department has all companies fully-staffed and City fire recruits have been reassigned from the fire academy to assist with any other storm-related needs including shoveling snow from fire hydrants.

The Police Department has called in the midnight shift to begin at 7 p.m. and personnel from earlier shifts will be maintained to handle with storm-related emergencies. Any resident with an emergency is reminded to call 9-11. Any non-emergency calls should be directed to 201-547-5477.

Residents may also call the Resident Response Center at 201-547-4900. The Resident Response Center will remain operational through the night and into tomorrow evening. Residents can call 201-547-4900 and receive a live person up until 5 pm tonight. After which they can call the RRC at OEM command center at 201-547-5566.

The JCIA has 60 pieces of equipment - plows & spreaders - working the storm as part of their snow removal operations across the city. The JCIA has two salt sites active in the eastern and southern ends of the city, with 4,000 tons of salt available. Yesterday, the JCIA pretreated all roadways with liquid brine.

Residents are reminded to NOT PARK within 25 feet of an intersection and to not double park. Doing so only hampers the efforts of crews plowing and salting streets. All vehicles parked within 25 feet of an intersection will be ticketed or towed. If possible, residents are asked to not park on main thoroughfares, so the JCIA can remove snow from curb-to-curb.
